Amplify@LDI: Translating Research for Impact

A free, online course focusing on key tools and skills in translation and dissemination for researchers.

About the Course

For many health policy and health economics researchers, it can be difficult converting research into a form that can be understood and used by the public and policymakers. As a result, research evidence and results may never make it into practice and policy.

Translation and dissemination tackle these hurdles by making results more accessible. This free, online course focuses on key tools and skills in translation and dissemination for researchers, including social media (Twitter), op-eds, blogs and briefs, media engagement, and policymaker engagement.

What You'll Learn

Our goal is to help you impact decisions made by elected officials, government agencies, non-government organizations, and health systems that affect the health of populations. You'll gain a solid foundation of skills for effectively translating and disseminating research.

Amplify@LDI TRANSLATING RESEARCH FOR IMPACT

Greetings! The CHERISH Dissemination and Policy Core would like to welcome you to this introductory online translation and dissemination training program developed by Penn LDI as a part of their Amplify@LDI training series.

This curriculum is designed for researchers in the fields of health economics, health services, and health policy to improve your ability to translate and communicate your findings to a variety of audiences, including policymakers and the public. When we talk about policy impact – we define policy broadly. Our goal is to help you impact decisions made by elected officials, government agencies, non-government organizations, and health systems that affect the health of populations.

These training modules can help you identify and communicate with target audiences and develop skills in producing content that speaks to these audiences, such as briefs, blogs, and op-eds.

Course Directors:

Zachary Meisel, MD, MSHP – Dissemination and Policy Core Director (CHERISH); Senior Fellow (Penn LDI)
David Grande, MD, MPA – Director of Policy, Penn LDI; Dissemination and Policy Core Member (CHERISH)
Nadiyah Browning, MPH – Senior Project Coordinator, Penn LDI; Dissemination and Policy Core Member (CHERISH)

Select a chapter to begin. If this is your first visit, we suggest starting with the Introduction.
